

My School DC Parent Advisory Council Overview Lottery School Year 2022-23

About My School DC

Washington, DC residents have many public school options. My School DC, in partnership with DC Public Schools (DCPS) and DC public charter schools, makes it easy for families to take advantage of these options through a common application and public school lottery. The common application allows families to apply to multiple public schools in one place, and the common lottery is a single, random lottery that determines placement for new students at all participating schools. About the Parent Advisory Council

Parent voices are critical to ensuring that My School DC is an equitable and valuable resource for families. Parents and guardians who serve on the My School DC Parent Advisory Council (PAC) will learn about My School DC priorities, provide input on the design and implementation of policies, programming, and new initiatives, serve as ambassadors of information to their respective schools and communities, and advise the Common Lottery Board – My School DC’s governing body – on major policy decisions. The PAC is comprised of parents and guardians from all eight Wards of the District. In addition, My School DC aims to ensure representation of families with children in early learning, elementary, middle, and high schools who attend DC Public Schools (DCPS) and DC public charter schools.
